

Refugee and Migrant Workers Centre

Home / Resources

RESOURCES

Know your rights, in your language.

OUR PROGRAM

Multilingual Education

The Refugee and Migrant Workers Centre delivers multilingual education through a combination of free translated resources and community education initiatives. This includes the development of multilingual materials, as well as the delivery of information sessions and workshops in multiple languages across New South Wales.

Our multilingual education program focuses on work health and safety, workplace rights, and access to support services for migrant workers. By providing information in culturally appropriate and accessible ways, we support communities to better understand their rights and stay safe at work.

WHAT WE FOCUS ON

Work health and safety

Workplace rights

Access to support services

PRACTICAL, ACCESSIBLE, CULTURALLY SAFE.

Our resources provide practical and accessible information about staying safe at work, responding to unsafe working conditions, understanding workplace rights, and recognising workplace exploitation. We develop materials in languages other than English to help ensure workers can access important information in ways that are culturally safe, accessible, and easy to understand.

Can't find what you need? Get in touch →

Refugee
and Migrant Workers
Centre

A centre run by migrant workers for migrant workers, empowering our communities to enforce their rights at work.

Instagram

Facebook

HELP & RESOURCES

Legal Help

Multilingual resources

ABOUT

About us

Our work

Get involved

Become an ambassador

GET IN TOUCH

1300 513 107

hello@migrants.org.au

Labour Hire Toolkit videos

Make an enquiry

Research reports

Upcoming events

Request a session

Acknowledgement of Country

We acknowledge the Gadigal people of the Eora Nation as the traditional custodians of the land on which we work and meet, and we pay our respects to Elders past and present. Always was, always will be Aboriginal land.

© 2026 Refugee and Migrant Workers Centre. All rights reserved.

Questions or feedback? Get in touch.